

GLADSTONE GALLERY

Florence Fabricant, "These Curries are Works of Art," The New York Times, May, 2019

The New York Times

FRONT BURNER

These Curries Are Works of Art

The artist Rirkrit Tiravanija includes red, yellow and green curries in his latest exhibition at the Hirshhorn Museum in Washington, D.C.

The artist Rirkrit Tiravanija's "Who's Afraid of Red, Yellow and Green," shown here at a Bangkok gallery in 2010. via 100 Tonson Gallery, Bangkok

Rirkrit Tiravanija, an artist whose interactive works cover social, political and food experiences, will have an exhibition starting this month at the Hirshhorn Museum and Sculpture Garden in Washington, D.C., that includes servings of curry. Called "Who's Afraid of Red, Yellow and Green," the installation features murals, documentary films and free servings of red, yellow and green curries on a first-come, first-served basis. The curries are served to museum-goers around noon on Thursdays through Sundays, until the food runs out.

"Who's Afraid of Red, Yellow and Green," May 17 to July 24, Hirshhorn Museum and Sculpture Garden, Independence Avenue and Seventh Street, Washington, D.C., hirshhorn.si.edu.